VIOLATION OF INSURANCE LAW

Seventeen Companies Said to Be Liable to Have Licenses Revoked. Does This Affect the Validity of Policies Issued?

An opinion which is of considerable importance to foreign insurance companies doing business in Oregon, was rendered Friday by Attorney-General Blackburn at the request of Secretary of State Dunbar. Mr. Dunbar, in requesting the opinion, stated that he had received a number of complaints from insurance agents saying that the provisions of the act to regulate and license fire insurance companies, and to prohibit overhead writing, is being violated.

The violations, it is alleged, consist in the establishment and maintenance of more than two agents or agencies in Portland, and more than one agency or agent in certain other cities in the state. Seventeen companies are alleged to have violated the law. The companies appointed the two agents they are entitled to appoint for Portland, according to the complaints, and also appointed or pretended to appoint agents in one or more of the towns or villages near that city. These agents, it is alleged, though supposed to be doing business in the towns for which they were appointed, maintain residence and fixed offices in Portland, where they write insurance on Portland property as well as property in the town in which they are supposed to be located. Judge Blackburn's opinion says:

"The law is that each company may appoint two agents in each city in this state having a population of 40,000 or more. No greater number can be appointed unless the quarterly license is paid. The additional agent or agents which have been appointed have been appointed for towns which are adjacent to Portland but have been appointed in Portland.

The action on the part of these companies in appointing these additional agents seems to be a willful and deliberate attempt by them and each of them to avoid the payment to Multnomah county of the sum of $100 quarterly for a license for each additional agent so appointed in the city of Portland, and to evade the law as claimed by complaining parties; and, in my opinion, you have the right to revoke the license of each and every agent in this state appointed by such companies."

Mr. Dunbar will send a circular letter of warning to insurance companies soon, which will embrace Judge Blackburn's conclusions.

N. M. Learned Wins.

In the case of Swegle vs. Learned, which was tried in Justice Johnson's court, Friday afternoon, the jury gave a verdict in favor of defendant, allowing him to remain on the land until the expiration of his lease in January, 1901, by payment of $3 per week in advance, according to an understanding had with Swegle.

The New Suitings and Trousers have arrived at Lane's the tailor.

Heavy Train Late.

The new Oregon express that takes the place of the Roseburg local has been from a half hour to an hour late reaching Salem from Portland every day. This is explained by the railroad people here as due to the heavy local traffic between here and Portland, and the large number of freight trains.

Some of the engine crews say the engines are not heavy enough to make time and burn wood. The loss of time falls on the railroad as well as on the passengers and persons employed who wait on the train at Salem. The Oregon Express that goes north seems to be on time often.

The New Suitings and Trousers have arrived at Lane's the tailor.

The Damaged Wheat.

Farmers are interested in knowing when a report may be expected from the Flouring mill company as to the insurance adjustment on the wheat damaged in the fire, and the probable percentage that will be realized upon the grain which was on storage. As soon as anything definite is known in the matter THE JOURNAL will inform its readers at once, but at present no data is available for making a reliable estimate.
